PLANE HUNTS SLAYER OF 3 WORKERS

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

There was quite a demand yesterday morning for smoked glass through which the citizens viewed the eclipse.

As far as we were concerned, the whole affair was a complete success.

We were rather afraid that the clouds would obscure the sun, but at the last minute they cleared away.

Scientists who followed the path of the eclipse in a fast moving airplane, snapping pictures of the event, reported that the pictures were a complete success.

After looking at the sun being slowly blotted out, one can't blame the savages, who beat drums, fired their guns and in general raise the roof when they see the eclipse occur. It is their idea that an evil god is gulping up the sun.

After the shadow fades away, they pat themselves on the back and declare that they had frightened the god away.

In spite of what scientists have said, and in spite of the fact that we are alleged to be an intelligent type of people, there were signs of relief from many when the shadows faded away.

There was something odd and oppressive about that semi-twilight at noon.

Every time we see an eclipse it reminds us of Mark Twain's story of the Yankee who saved himself from death on the stake in Camelot by telling King Arthur he was a magician and could make the sun disappear.

According to fiction, more than one man has saved his life through the appearance of an eclipse. It always happens just as our hero is about to be killed by savage Indians or cannibals or something.

We've always yearned to do the same thing. But there seems to be a lack of savages in the United States, and we are just out of luck.

We had planned to try it out on a bill collector yesterday, but for some unknown reason, not one of 'em showed up.

Thus, a great scientific experiment came to naught.

Which all, of course, reminds us of the night watchman in our neighborhood, who had just gone to bed. When the eclipse came, his wife awoke him, saying, "Come, quick and see the eclipse." To which he replied: "The eclipse! Bah! When the earthquakes come and the world comes to an end—call me," and went back to sleep.

BODIES OF MEN FOUND IN CABIN

MODESTO, April 28.—UP—Airplanes were called into service late today in searching for an itinerant ranch worker who murdered three fellow workmen in a drunken rage.

The man, known as "Bill" Crowley, approached John Huteh, auto camp proprietor today and gave up his rifle. He fled to the thick underbrush along the San Joaquin river after Huteh had phoned the sheriff's office.

Just before dusk, Undersheriff Stanton Briggs obtained the services of a pilot Thomas Penfield and his plane and flew over the region where Crowley is supposedly hiding but no trace of him was found. A posse of 50 men were watching all roads hoping to surround the fugitive before morning.

Crowley told Huteh that he had killed three men in a drunken fight. Officers later found the body of Joseph Barton, 45, on the doorstep of a small house on the Anthony Nunes dairy ranch. He had been shot through the neck and head and part of one hand had been blown away.

At a small cabin nearby on the Glenn Crow dairy ranch the bodies of John Murphy, 40, and Deloide C. Fultz, 35, were found. Both had been shot in the back.

Crowley, a middle aged man, had worked on several ranches in this vicinity. Huteh said he was intoxicated when he surrendered the rifle. Liquor was found in the cabin of the dead men.

At the city council meeting last night, City Manager McVittie said the Key System had consented to taking up 1000 feet of track between Cutting and Potrero, which would leave the main track line. This will permit the city to go forward with the improvement of Pullman avenue, and will give a 32-foot street. There will be a concrete curb installed on the west side of the street, next to the car tracks.

Girl Injures Arm Looking At Eclipse

Ruth Brown, 15, went out into the gloomy daylight of yesterday to see the sun perform its disappearing act, but instead of seeing the display in the heavens, the local girl saw the inside of a hospital ward.

While gazing through a smoked glass at the eclipse, Ruth was jostled by her companions, and the glass slipped aside, making a severe gash in her right wrist. The sharp edge of the glass missed the artery by but a trancel of an inch. A tourniquet was applied to the wounded arm by members of the high school faculty. The girl was then transported to the Emergency hospital, where she received treatment from Dr. L. Hedges. It was found necessary to apply six stitches to stop the flow of blood.

El Cerrito Home Fire Under Probe

Fire, which early Saturday morning threatened the Jose home at 1106 Liberty street, El Cerrito, is the subject of an extensive investigation by El Cerrito police and fire departments, the board of fire underwriters, and the sheriff's office.

Investigation followed the finding of a firebrand, which, according to O. A. Burnett, engineer of the fire department, and chief-elect, had presumably been cast into the bed in which Miss Marguerite Jose, 18, was sleeping, from an open window.

The young girl, clad only in her nightgown, ran several blocks to the fire department and reported the fire.

The fire brand, which was made from the rung of a chair which had been wrapped in cloth, and saturated in an inflammable liquid.

POPULATION SET AT 20,000

The census ended in Richmond last night at midnight with the enumerators of this district handing in their reports to Edward Dinklespiel, census supervisor of this district, at Vallejo.

Although no report was made, city officials expressed belief that the official count here will be more than 20,000 which is rather a disappointment to the city.

However, Richmond showed an increase over the 1910 census, which gave the population of the city as 16,843.

City officials expressed the belief yesterday that a majority of residents have been counted in the census here but that a small number was not included.

The enumeration was aided here by a chamber of commerce committee headed by City Manager James A. McVittie, the Boy Scouts under the direction of R. F. Cox, Scout executive, and city officials.

It is expected that the official figures will be given out by Dicklespiel within a short time.

Hindus Clash In Religious Riots; 2 Dead

BOMBAY, April 28. — (UP) — Fatal religious riots were reported today from the Nasik region, scene of earlier clashes between caste Hindus and untouchables.

The riots held political significance, inasmuch as British officials cite religious hatreds as evidence that the Indians are not ready for self-rule.

Two Pathans were killed in a battle in which seven of their number clashed with several hundred residents of a village near Nasik. The villagers challenged the Pathans, who replied with pistols. The challengers then retreated to a neighboring height and bombarded the Pathans with stones flung from slings. Police arrested the five Pathans who survived the barrage.

Later hostilities between Caste Hindus and untouchables were renewed in several villages of the district. The untouchables, who have petitioned Mahatma Gandhi, the independence leader, to take their part, attempted to enter temples where they were not allowed. In one case, 50 Caste Hindus attacked a small group of untouchable men, women and boys, beating them severely.

Orthodox Hindus also were reported to have stoned pickets placed by the untouchables at the Kalaram Temple at the Gates of Nasik.

So far, the Hindus have played the major part in Gandhi's independence campaign. Various Moslem leaders have warned their followers against the "inopportune and ill-advised" movement, and some have declared that independence would mean Hindu dominance.

Moderates, as well as some Hindus and Moslems, are cooperating in an effort to solve their communal differences with a view to presenting India's right to self rule if summoned to a round table conference at London.

The independence drive, which for the first three weeks has centered largely on the breaking of the salt laws, entered a new phase last night, when foreign made cloth was burned in bonfires at Kfrachi and Rangoon.

MANY VISIT AT PARDEE DAM

Richmond residents viewed the Pardee reservoir of the East Bay Municipal Utility on Sunday as guests of Henry A. Johnston, one of the district directors, and saw the lake within seven feet of flowing over the spillway.

Some time this week, probably by Thursday, the water will reach its maximum level and will flow over the great spillway and on down the canyon of the Mokelumne river as it did for ages before the great Pardee dam was erected.

Chief Engineer Frank W. Hanna, in addressing the crowd on the shores of the lake, announced that the water is rising at the rate of two feet a day, the Mokelumne being fed by the melting snows of the great watershed that stretches all the way to the summit of the Sierras.

Big Supply

The lake holds something like four and a half years supply of water at present rates of consumption. Hanna said the district is now using the Mokelumne pipe line and pumps to their utmost capacity, pushing in sixty-six million gallons of water a day to San Pablo and upper San Leandro reservoirs. This has been going on for some weeks, but the rushing torrent of the Mokelumne river, fed by the melting snows, has been raising the reservoir two feet a day.

The spillway is 345 feet long surmounted by a boulevard leading to the dam, and the water flows over this when it comes within 12 feet of the top of the dam. The spillway is calculated to carry five times as much water as has ever been known to flow in the river.

All structures are now completed at the Pardee reservoir and most of the construction buildings have been removed.

Movies Taken

On Sunday's outing C. C. Kratzer took motion pictures of the crowd and close-ups of George Mero, retiring president of the Rotary club, and George N. Rooker, the president elect. These will be shown at an early meeting of the club.

Henry A. Johnston acted as chairman, introducing Hanna; T. P. Wittschien, general counsel for the district; Grant D. Miller, director from Oakland, and others connected with the district.

Next Saturday supervisors from San Joaquin county will view the dam and the lake and will see the entire flow of the river passing over the spillway.

Solons Move To Give Aid To Unemployed

WASHINGTON, April 28.—UP—The Senate moved today to relieve the unemployment situation by passing without a record vote two of the Wagner bills, authorizing an emergency appropriation of $150,000,000 to be spent in public building whenever an unemployment crisis is threatened.

A federal employment stabilization board and a system for collecting nation-wide employment statistics also are provided in the bills. A third Wagner bill providing for a system of employment exchanges by cooperation between the Federal and State governments was made the unfinished business, giving it a preferred status on the Senate program and virtually assuring its passage.

The two bills were passed after an attack on the administration by Senator Walsh, Dem., Mass., who charged there has been "a lack of sympathy, lack of interest, lack of appreciation" with unemployment conditions and the relief program.

"Tens of thousands, if not millions of Americans are on the verge of starvation," Walsh declared before the vote, "I don't believe it is possible to exaggerate the hunger and want that exists in this country today as a result of prolonged unemployment."

Missions Split Doubleheader With Portland

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—UP—There was baseball in Portland today where the Beavers and Mission Reds divided a double bill by way of playing off a tie and postponed game.

Other clubs of the Pacific Coast league were idle or traveling. Portland won the first game by a margin of one run, defeating the Missions 5 to 4. The Missions took the nightcap contest 5 to 1.

In the first game Green went the route for Portland, allowing only nine hits while his teammates collected 13 hits. Both clubs played errorless ball.

Today's play did not change the league standings. Oakland leads the league with 14 wins and 7 defeats. Sacramento is second with a record of winning 13 games and losing 7. San Francisco is in fourth place with 12 games to its credit and 9 defeats. As a result of today's play the Missions remained in fifth place with 10 victories and the same amount of defeats and Portland is at the end of the list with 5 victories and 15 defeats.

French aviators were found injured beside their wrecked plane 300 miles south of Reggan, Morocco, after being given up as dead, the trans-African Aviation company was advised today.

The fliers—Goulette, Marchesseau and Bougeois—crashed on an attempted flight to Reggan from the desert city of Gao, French Sudan, last Tuesday. Their feet and legs were injured and they were unable to set out for help. For days they lay near the wreckage, getting what cover they could beneath the fierce equatorial sun.

Military planes sought them in vain. Finally native soldiers found them and went for assistance. Officers at Gao sent doctors in an airplane to take the fliers back to that city.

HOOVER DEMANDS CONGRESS ENACT DRY ENFORCEMENT PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(UP)—President Hoover today demanded of congress that it enact his wide program of prohibition enforcement before adjourning.

Congressional leaders had planned to pass only one of the half-dozen measures recommended by the Hoover-Wickersham commission. No indication was given as to what congress will do with the president's request, made in a special message today, but a session lasting into the middle of the summer may be necessary. Adjournment early in June had been planned.

The message left no question that the President is displeased with the way congress has disregarded his two previous urgent recommendations for prohibition law action.

Progress Made
"Substantial progress has been made upon some of the measures proposed," the message said, "yet we are nearing the end of the present session and I cannot too strongly urge the necessity of action upon all these recommendations before adjournment."

A survey of the situation in congress revealed the probability that the Hoover proposal in regard to the transfer of the functions of detection and prosecution of prohibition cases from the department of Treasury to the department of Law would be the only one of the five recommendations enacted into law.

The bill providing for the transfer has been passed by the house, and is now awaiting senate action.

Congestion Relief
Hoover's second recommendation was for relief from court congestion. The President said in his message that so-called bargain days, instituted to clear the court dockets, "distinctly undermine the respect for law." The judiciary committees of the senate and the house are still considering the law to speed up trials, but there is no indication of early floor action.

The third proposal for extension of federal prisons with a more adequate parole system and other modern treatment of prisoners, has been approved by the house and is in committee in the senate. In his message the President declared that the Attorney General has said "we cannot hope to enforce the laws unless we can have some point of reception for convicted persons."

Hits Prisons
"The overcrowding of the prisons themselves is inhumane and accentuates criminal tendencies," the President added.

A vigorous reorganization of the border patrol is the subject of the fourth proposal. This embodies a proposal to readjust and consolidate border forces "so as to effectually prevent illegal entry of both aliens and goods," and is related to problems of curbing the smuggling of liquor. Committees in both houses are deliberating on it, but no action is indicated.

Scores Actions
"We have within the limits of existing legislation improved the personnel and greatly increased the efficiency of the existing federal machinery in criminal law enforcement during the past year," said the message. "The above reforms are necessary, however, if I am to perform the high duty which falls upon the executive of enforcement of the federal laws."

Action Taken
"Our obedience to law, our law enforcement and judiciary organizations, our judicial procedure, our care and methods of handling prisoners, in relation to not only federal government, but also to state and municipal governments, are far from the standards that must be secured. These proposals, while they do not comprehend the work which remains to be done in the nation, are a step toward lifting the federal standards which must have a general beneficial influence."

Speaker Longworth referred the Hoover message to the six committees to which the various parts of the prohibition program were referred. In the senate, the message was referred to the judiciary committee without being read.

Mother Of Local Woman Dies In S. F.

Funeral services for Mrs. Pauline Petoud, mother of Mrs. Eliza Chancel of 227 Sixteenth street, Richmond, were held yesterday afternoon in San Francisco.

Mrs. Petoud, 83, died at her home in San Francisco Saturday night. Interment was in the Olivet Memorial park.

POLICE PROBE DEATH OF WOMAN

SEATTLE, April 28.—UP—Clad in a nightgown and wrapped in a rug, the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay, 50, was found today in a shallow grave in the yard of the former home of her husband.

Her skull was crushed and her throat cut, the coroner said. The body was found under four feet of earth following a search of about two months.

Authorities sought Everett Frank Lindsay, the husband, for questioning. He was said to have disappeared last Sunday with an adopted daughter, Pearl, 12. A reward for his arrest was offered by the county commissioners.

Neighbors reported Mrs. Lindsay occupied the three-room house for a year and that she was joined a few months ago by her husband. Bloodstained garments—apparently belonging to the dead woman—were found a few feet from the grave. An empty bottle, that had contained liquor, was picked up nearby.

Police said a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Lindsay, on a charge of assaulting Helen McComber, whom the Lindsay's planned to adopt. She and Pearl were said to have told an attorney that Lindsay had mistreated them on several occasions and that Mrs. Lindsay recently learned of the fact.

The girls said they heard Mrs. Lindsay telephone February 19 that she was going to a church party and that her husband was going to drive her there. She never arrived and friends said Lindsay told them she had gone to Vancouver, B. C.

Probe Reopens In Death Of Mrs. Guy Post

LAGUNA BEACH, April 28.—UP—A discovery that two women were the first to find the bodies of Mrs. Guy Post and Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer after they died in a local bungalow caused the county coroner to reopen the investigation into the tragedy today.

Previously it was thought that Verner Rush and Mrs. Kenneth Brown, who called a physician, had been the first to enter the bungalow after the shooting.

Coroner Brown said that two pairs of gloves in the bungalow had been accepted as the property of Mrs. Post and Mrs. Palmer, but that a local woman had telephoned him today and asked for the gloves. She told him she said, that she and a companion had entered the house and then had both fled after her companion had fainted momentarily. The names of the two women were not disclosed.

Brown said he did not know whether the new information would affect a coroner's jury verdict that Mrs. Post committed suicide after shooting Mrs. Palmer. Jealousy was the accepted motive, the sheriff's office declining to believe a suicide pact note left by Mrs. Post.

PARKER TRIAL STARTS IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Apr. 28.—Represented by Wilbur F. Pierce, former Richmond attorney, William H. Parker, former city councilman, yesterday faced trial in court of Superior Judge Fred V. Wood.

No testimony in the Parker case was heard yesterday, the time being devoted to impaneling a jury. Ray G. Lamberson, Parker's former secretary, and John G. Garbutt, faced trial with Parker on charges of paying bribery. Charges against Floyd Van Noy, indicted with them, were dismissed on motion of District Attorney Earl Warren in return for turning state's evidence.

The trial of J. U. Collier, J. L. Davis and A. R. Shurtleff, former deputy sheriffs, was resumed in the court of Judge Edward W. Engle.

With them also, Jack Gardella, reputed bootlegger of Livermore, is being tried.

In testimony before the jury, Chester Flint, Warren's detective, described the explosion of the "pig sty" at Russell city in the midst of a raid.

Flint declared alcohol from the smashed still ignited from a short circuit and members of the raiding party barely escaped with their lives. Two hundred and eighty hogs rushed into the flames and perished.

Burglars Don't seek the Limelight

DARKNESS is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods, does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits.

You can depend on him. He knows his product is good. That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.

The Lincoln boys defeated the Peres nine by a 5 to 4 score in a last minute rally in the eighth inning.

All of Richmond's scoring was done by Mascroft, outside right. Mascroft has not seen a great deal of action with the Richmond soccer squad this year, but his playing in last week-end's battle ranked him as one of Richmond's most valuable soccer assets.

SPEAKING OF PLANETS!

RICHMOND HIGH NINE DEFEATS ALAMEDA

The Richmond Union high school varsity nine continued to do the unexpected by trouncing the Alameda high school varsity league winners 2 to 0 yesterday at Alameda. Yesterday's game was the second victory gained by the Richmond boys at the expense of the Alamedans, who are already champions of the Alameda County Athletic league baseball competition.

The Richmond athletes played probably their best game of the season yesterday on the Alameda diamond. Johnny Babich pitched a whirlwind style of baseball, allowing but three hits and fanning nine Alamedans. Rosano caught the best game of the season yesterday for Richmond.

The game was remarkably scarce in hitting for the Richmondites were only able to gain five hits off the Alameda twirler. Peacock allowed three hits, and Worster was nipped for two. However, the Island City pitchers walked seven Richmond boys, while Babich walked but two Alamedans. The stellar swatter of the game was Joe Viano, Richmond second sacker, who collected two hits out of three chances at bat.

The Richmond Union high school varsity baseball squad will play its last A. C. A. L. game of the season today when it clashes with the Emeryville high school nine at Emeryville. The game was postponed earlier in the year.

The Richmond athletes are now in fourth place in the league, and it is rather probable that they can repulse the Emeryvillians today, thereby going into a tie for third place with Berkeley high school. The local boys have already defeated the Emeryville players this year, and are therefore rather confident of victory. Today's game is the final contest of the present A. C. A. L. baseball season.

The present league standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Alameda	8	2
Centerville	6	4
Berkeley	5	5
Richmond	4	5
Emeryville	2	8

Odd Fellow Nine Hands Concord Team Trouncing

The Odd Fellows of Richmond returned to their home town rejoicing Sunday afternoon after trouncing the Concord nine 3 to 0 at Concord.

Concord played errorless ball, but the local Lodgemen succeeded in bunting their hits to better advantage. Richmond's victory was in a large measure due to the stellar pitching of Carl Kamb, who allowed but five scattered hits and fanned 10 Concord swatters. Frank of Concord also pitched good ball, allowing only six hits and fanning seven Richmondites.

The heavy hitting of the day was done by R. Mangini of Concord who made the trip to first via the hit route three times out of four chances at bat. The timely hits of Gordon and Jack Pinto of Richmond while there were men on bases greatly aided the Lodgemen on their road to victory.

COREY GARAGE NINE BEATS Y. M. I.

The Richmond Y. M. I. nine were completely swamped under a 12 to 4 score by the Earl Corey garage diamond aggregation Sunday on the El Cerrito lot.

The Y. M. I. hitters could not find their batting eye Sunday, mainly because Lefty Brendell, Corey twirler, wouldn't let them.

Brendell pitched sensational ball, allowing only eight scattered hits.

Brendell starred for the Carneys in the hitting as well as in pitching, collecting three hits—one a triple, out of four times at bat.

Thompson entered the box for the losers, but was soon forced to take the bench by the hard-hitting garage men in the second inning, when he was replaced by Joe Viano, who finished the game.

School nurse says all girls should know this
LISTERINE
KILLS GERMS IN 15 SECONDS

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically, and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SYNOPSIS
A South Sea island whither he had fled to escape his brutal husband is named Stella Blackney and David Wade quarrel over the amorous attentions paid him by Moira, a half-caste girl they befriend. David realizes how much he loves Stella who has been carried out to sea by the tide. Searching for her, he encounters her husband, O'Shane, come for vengeance. But they learn she has been captured by heat-hunters and join forces to search for her. She is held a prisoner by the head-hunters' chief, Kapa, who intends to marry her to be revenged on the whites who killed O'Shane set out secretly to free treated him. At night both David and Stella.

He refused it. The resonant and intoned voice that came from a distance was impressing itself upon him again. He recognized it as Moira's.

"My blood for his!" she was saying with that curious intoning. "My blood runs to give him life."

The half-caste's body was a slow, rhythmic movement, and her face the expression of one who looks over a great distance.

"The blood of the living!" she intoned. "The blood of the living for the loved. It is what my mother and the sorcerers told me."

Wade could endure it no longer. "Moira!" he cried. "Moira!"

"Ah, you are awake at last!" she said. "Kapa was breathing a little unsteady, and her eyes shone wetly."

"Is the pain better? I—have been trying to make it better. Don't move!" she commanded as he made to sit up. "You might disturb the bandage." She sent Lo-ora to bring food.

"I don't want to eat!" Wade cried. Memory of the happenings in the Sacred House was rushing upon him. "I can't stay here! I've got to get her out of that devil's hands—"

"But you don't know what has happened!"

"But I do! Some villagers brought you off in a canoe, and they told me that you and O'Shane had crept into the Sacred House. They told me about it as though it was a real good joke. You had been watched all the time, they said. Then, when it was considered you had got far enough, you were clubbed, both of you. They had you at their mercy all the time. Afterwards Kapa sent you back on board in canoes—"

She paused. In the silence the ripple of the tide made a soft swishing against the cutter's hull. The wetness of Moira's eyes had grown.

"O'Shane was dead, and Kapa thought you were dead, too. From the manner of the canoeing and the way they spoke, I think Kapa thought it a pleasing irony to send your bodies on board."

"O'Shane is dead, you say?" The news shocked him profoundly. "He was a brave man. He gave his life for her."

"Just as you would have given yours—as, indeed, you nearly did give it."

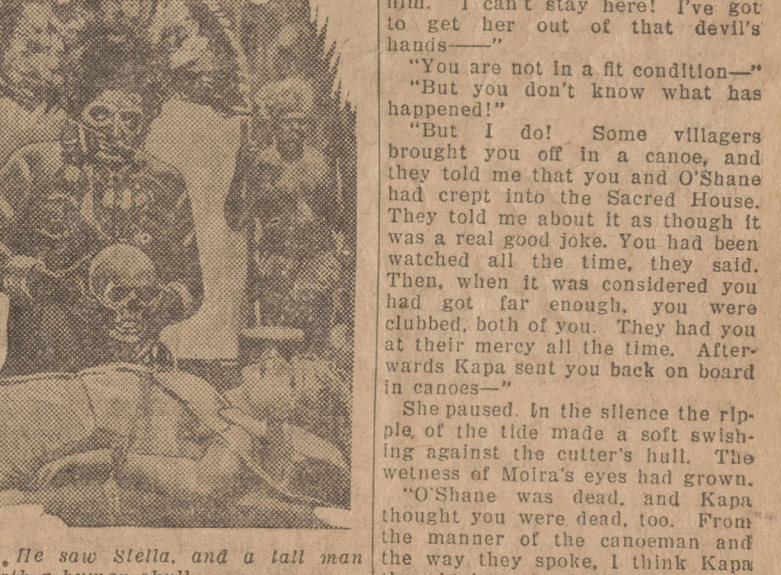

There was another pause. The declining sun was now sending its rays on Wade's face. The girl pulled over the shutter of the entrance so as to shield him from it. The brightness of the torch showed up the end of the house with an intense brightness, showed the grey-brown thatch of the wall hung with extravagantly decorated head-dresses, and dancing-masks barbarically grotesque, and wooden shields tall as a man and hung about with human skulls, and in front of these things Stella—Stella with a native to each of her arms, and one with his great black hand across her mouth—Stella pale and wan, but alert and filled with vigour, and struggling with her guards. Her voice came in a half-choked warning:

"Watch out! They're—"

The hand of the native had choked back the rest of the warning. There was a mighty oath from O'Shane. He rushed forward; Wade could see his great bulk more or less outlined against the light. Then that instant a heavy, crunching blow he staggered and sank limply down, much as a tired child might have sunk limply down. The light vanished.

"I'm here!" cried Wade. "It's me—David! I'm coming Stella!"

He ran forward; and on the instant something hard crashed down on the side of his head.

He told her again he did not want to eat, but with gentle insistence she persuaded him to try, sitting beside him and raising his pillow.

"Don't!" she whispered, and her eyes glowed—not with satisfaction, but with sympathy.

"Now you must rest, and not worry," she said. "Everything will turn out all right if it will, really. I—I have thought it all out."

"Not worry! Good God! Do you know that to-night he intends to take her to the mountains!"—with intense bitterness.

"He must not take her!" cried Lo-ora in an agony of tone. "Must not take her! My sinabada! Now take her!"

"A lot can happen between now and tonight," said Moira slowly.

"But what? O'Shane is dead, his men have cleared out. I am crippled, our natives are useless—"

"There is time for a lot to happen—"

"That is too hazy and uncertain for me. I want a positive line of action, to do something—not merely wait. Oh, curse this body of mine! What sort of poor creature is a man that a single blow can put him out of action. Just when I need my strength most it is gone from me! strength most it is gone from me!"

"David," said Moira presently.

"Yes?"

"I am going ashore."

"Why? What for? What is there you can do? No; you mustn't! It's too dangerous."

"Not so dangerous as you think, perhaps."

"But what could you do?"

"This is a waste of time," came the half-caste's answer. "One way. She had tried to say it evenly, and scarcely succeeded."

"What way?" Wade demanded.

"Spose you make him let my sinabada go, then I love you always, yes?" cried Lo-ora.

Rube Curry, who has resided at the corner of Tenth and Cutting boulevard for the past 20 years protested against the work from the Santa Fe tracks to Cutting. He said there was not a business house in that section, the territory was but sparsely settled, property had depreciated in value, and it would be an unjust burden on the property owners. The speaker said he was in favor of improvements, but did not think this was the time to do this work, as the streets in that section would have to be paved in a short time.

Councilman A. R. Hinkley, thought the council should not act hastily in the matter, and voiced the opinion that the sections from Lucas to Ripley, and from the Santa Fe tracks to Cutting should be eliminated, as there was much opposition from these two sections. He then moved that the matter go over for two weeks for the council to consider the installing of electric lights from Lucas avenue to the Santa Fe tracks.

SCIENTISTS DISAPPOINTED BY PHOTOS OF SUN ECLIPSE

Lights burned in Richmond homes and buildings yesterday noon. Roof tops were well crowded with persons peering through colored glass.

The eclipse was almost total at 11 o'clock, and the normal temperature had sunk perceptibly. Conditions had returned to normal shortly after noon.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28. (UP)—A strange, violet-tinted midnight visited northern California and parts of Nevada at midday, when the moon passed between the earth and sun, bathing a narrow one-half mile strip in darkness.

It was not totally dark, however, but more like a half-moon glowing through a tropical night. The sight was thrilling and inspiring to laymen observers, but was a disappointment for hard-working scientists who had hoped to photograph the total eclipse.

There were "light leaks" thru the deep ravines and valleys that grooved the moon, and for that reason, the eclipse may not have been total.

Not Total

The irregular surface of the moon let some of the piercing rays of the sun filter earthward, but that did not make sufficient difference to interest anyone except trained astronomers.

The eclipse, originating near Butte, Mont., ran across Nevada and the northwestern counties of California. It lacked 1-100th of being total in San Francisco and nearby points.

Just a suggestion of an obstruction closed over an edge of the sun at 9:36 a. m. Pacific time, but the eclipse was not plainly visible through a smoked glass until 10 a. m., and then it started getting dark, until at 10:58 there was merely a suggestion of a faint glow of light around the dark blot that hid the earth from the sun.

Scientific men in camps along the path of the eclipse flew in the dimming skies in airplanes, but this racing with the rushing shadow of the moon was a joke. The airplanes roared along at more than 100 miles an hour, but the shadow of the moon was much faster.

It's speed being between 1,200 and 1,500 miles an hour. That shadow of the moon was the largest known to man—towering 235,000 miles high.

The astronomers in their airplanes took pictures, as did their fellows on the ground, but there was one brief second in which to obtain those pictures which now will be examined and studied in detail in the hope of adding to the treasure of knowledge possessed by mankind.

Four Groups

There were four major groups of scientists working at lightning speed during the eclipse and dozens of groups of amateurs.

Lick Observatory located a camp at Camptonville in Yuba county, in the heart of the country where the '49ers first sought gold.

Dr. W. W. Campbell, a noted astronomer, director of Lick and former president of the University of California, was at Camptonville and declared he believed the eclipse was total for one small fraction of a second, but fellow scientists were not so sure. In any event, the fraction of a second was not as much time as had been expected and desired.

Too Brief

It is likely that the briefness of the eclipse wiped out much of the possibilities for reward as was hoped for and planned on for months by scientists.

Dr. R. L. Waterfield, also of Lick, said tonight that he believed his camera caught something of the inner corona.

At Honey Lake, in Lassen county, 4,000 feet above sea level, was Mrs. Isabel M. Lewis, an astronomer of the U. S. Naval observatory, at Washington D. C. She took pictures from her camp, at the same time that two naval airplanes from Reno, Nevada, circled overhead and snapped pictures from the sky.

Other scientists who commanded airplanes were Dr. E. M. Jeffers, of Lick, and Lieut. E. B. Boozell, of Crissy Field, San Francisco's army airport. In Yuba county also, was a party of observers from Johns Hopkins University. Sacramento Junior College also took photographs under the direction of W. W. Grayman.

Grayness Apparent

As the moon proceeded over the face of the sun, the air grew colder and the effect of the warm rays of the sun being cut off, was felt.

A peculiar grayness was apparent at first and the cold increased. The green foothills surrounding San Francisco bay faded away in a murky haze. For 30 minutes it was so dark that the office lights were turned on. Entertaining business men capitalized by sending planes equipped with Neon lighted advertisements signs aloft to cruise above the city.

By 11 a. m. the climax was over and daylight started to return. First the opposite rim of the sun was visible and bit by bit Old Sol again came into his own.

TEMPERATURE HITS DECLINE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28. (UP)—When the sun hides behind the moon, even for a brief period, it makes a difference in temperature, the U. S. weather men learned today.

At 10 a. m., with the eclipse of today in progress, it was 61 degrees above zero, but at 10:58, when the eclipse was almost total the reading was 58, there being a drop of three degrees.

PLANE RIDERS VIEW ECLIPSE.

SEATTLE, April 28. (UP)—Grandstand seats in an airplane at an altitude of 12,000 feet were enjoyed by four passengers on a Pacific Transport plane enroute from Los Angeles to Seattle today as they viewed the eclipse.

With the aid of smoked glasses, the passengers viewed the phenomenon high above the clouds. Low hanging clouds generally prevented views of the eclipse in western Washington.

CULT DECLARES ECLIPSE IMPOSSIBLE

ZION CITY, Ill., April 28. (UP)—The eclipse of the sun today was a mysterious phenomenon which cannot be explained satisfactorily, in the opinion of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, famed exponent of the theory that the world is flat.

"The eclipse does not fit in with the facts in the case at all," the United Press was informed tonight by Voliva, who is head of the prosperous Zion church and religious community here.

"Inasmuch as the earth is flat," he said, "and both the sun and moon are above the horizon, it is physically impossible for the shadow of the moon to cause an eclipse."

"Still, there was an eclipse, and there must have been some reason for it."

The work to be done will include painting, wall papering and tiling.

Business must be good in El Cerrito according to the report of Police Judge J. P. Plank, for the month of March, which showed fines collected for the violation of motor vehicle ordinances of $2075.20, and city ordinances of $550.

Building Inspector H. E. Wood reported permits issued during March with a valuation totaling $9,825.

Tax Collector R. R. Cheek reported collections for the month of March of $481.30.

Councilmen Peter Larsen and Hans M. Nissen were appointed to get bids for the liability and property damage insurance on the automobiles used in the street, fire and police departments, and submit them next Monday night.

Harbor Masons Hear Address On Lighting

"Lighting for Beauty Convenience Safety and Health" was the subject of an address delivered before a large crowd of Masons, Eastern Stars and their friends at the Masonic hall last night, by Clark Baker, Sr., chief illuminating engineer of the General Electric company.

The evening was under the auspices of the Harbor Masonic lodge, with L. E. Jones and L. M. Johnson in charge.

Baker gave an interesting talk, describing the effect of improper lighting on the eyes, and the various effects proper lighting has on the interior of a home.

He demonstrated this portion of his talk by hanging drapery and showing the effects of correct lighting on it.

The speech was preceded by a program of musical selections, and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

BANISH MUSIC?

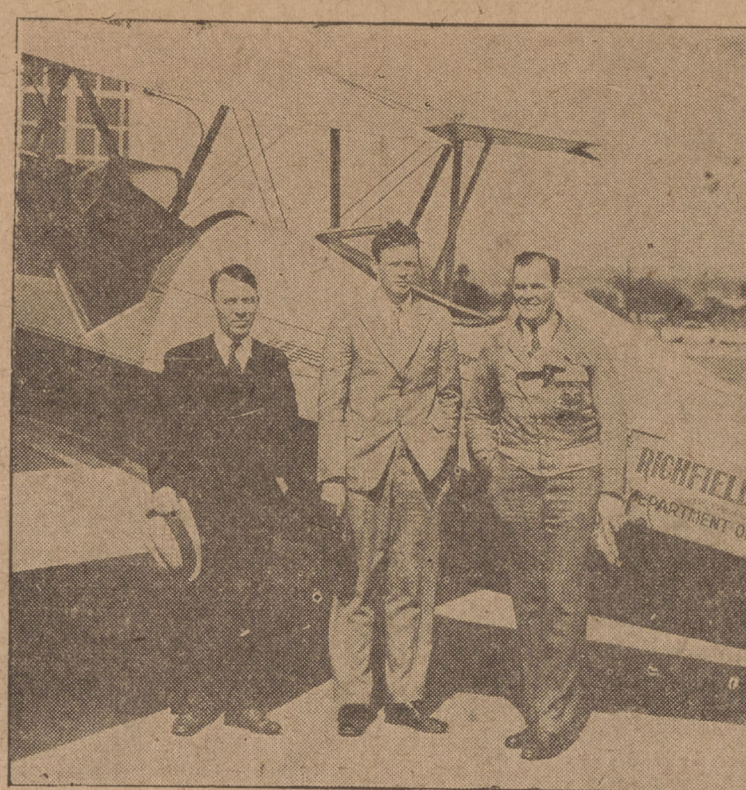

"PLEASE don't," plead millions of theatregoers.

"Better not," warn wise showmen. "Sure we will," declare industrialists who control canned music in the theatres. "The public can learn to like records as well as orchestras. Anyway, that's what they're going to get."

And so the issue is defined: Shall talking pictures be used as an excuse for reducing the theatre to a dehumanized museum (without reduction in admission charge)? Or, shall the atmosphere of the theatre be retained and the cause of culture served through a victory for music? Managers of high-class theatres recognize that real music is essential, and they continue to provide it. Others must be shown.

Wins Tenth Of Amount Asked

LOS ANGELES, April 28. (UP)—Harold "Buddy" Davis, whose conviction on a charge of accepting bribes while deputy district attorney was reversed by the appellate court, gained his liberty on $10,000 bond today after being held in the county jail for a year.

District Attorney Burton Pitts said a petition for a rehearing would be made in the appellate and if necessary the state supreme courts. If both deny a rehearing it was not believed that Davis would be taken to trial again.

In ruling that the testimony of Ben Getzoff, principal state witness, was not sufficient because he had a possible personal motive, the appellate court broke the backbone of the prosecution. In return for his testimony Getzoff was paroled on his conviction with Former District Attorney Asa Keyes, Davis' chief, on a bribery charge.
